Miss Irene Shier returned to Calgary Sunday to resume her studies at Normal School.

Everyone is rushing around the town this week putting in their gardens.

We have heard of a certain young man who has returned from the north with his hope chest. In the old days such an article was the property of the ladies, but in this ever changing world, customs no doubt, change quicker than we expect.

Dominion Wheat Grading Praised

MEDICINE HAT (Special)—"Canada leads the way, and has the best system in the world, for the grading of wheat." J. Paxton, grain inspector, told the Rotary Club in an address on grading of Canadian grains.

That Canadian wheat is considered the best in the world, was a recognized fact said the speaker, and quoted many millers and industrialists, showing the very high opinion in which Canadian wheat is held in Europe.

Referring to Canada's certificate system for grading, Mr. Paxton pointed out that English millers express entire satisfaction with this system, and know they can rely on the grade of wheat when receiving in accord with the grade shown on the certificate.

Canada, he said, is the only country in the world enjoying this position, which, he pointed out, had been attained by accurate and uniform grading. The speaker described the organization and the work of the inspection department in the sampling and grading of wheat, showing the importance of accurate grading for grains, and its possible effect on the price and sale of Canadian products in foreign markets.

The Community Newspaper

Few people appreciate in anything like full measure the tremendous influence for good exerted by the country weekly newspapers of the western provinces in the communities they serve and the quality of the service rendered by the proprietors and editors of these weekly symposiums of world, national and local current events.

Whether realized or not, however, the fact remains and can be irrefutably established that the well-conducted and discriminatingly edited country weekly—and that means the great majority of them—fulfills an extremely important function in the town and rural district in which it circulates. Nothing else that the subscribers of these papers can be bought to yield such value for such a small monetary consideration.

And not only in quantity of material does the subscriber receive great value for an almost infinitesimal outlay but the quality of the merchandise offered to the purchaser of the paper is an unparalleled tribute to the discernment, ability and integrity of the proprietor who shapes its course and determines its policies.

An analysis of the contents of the average issue of the mill-run of country weeklies in the west demonstrates that considerable discernment is exercised in the selection of the news presented to their readers, that a high moral plane dictates the selection that is made and that service to the community of a high order is invariably maintained through their columns whether devoted to world events or to small local occurrences.

Partly because of this all-pervading tone permeating from the first paragraph to the last and partly because in many homes the local weekly is the sole printed purveyor of current topics no literature is more consistently and carefully read or with such close scrutiny, including the advertisements, than the country weekly newspaper.

Another factor which commends the country weekly to its readers and subscribers is the eminently sane outlook of its proprietor and editor in approaching the problems of the day—whether they be political, social, religious or economic. Their utterances invariably reflect a breadth of vision and spirit of tolerance so much needed in a world gone mad at a time when too many turn aside to follow false gods or pursue spurious theories and "isms".

Then, too, much of the extraordinary influence exerted by the country weekly upon its readers should be attributed to the liberal space devoted to plans which have for their objective some phase of community betterment or improvement of the town and district. In this respect owners and editors give much of their time and energy to worthy causes for which there is no recompense other than the satisfaction which comes from having assisted in the promotion of a beneficial project.

Alongside the more imposing and voluminous metropolitan daily which is "sufficient unto the day" for its clientele, the country weekly paper may appear comparatively insignificant, but the latter is picked up, read and re-read and its contents of news, editorial comment, advertising is digested and re-digested for a week until the succeeding issue steps into the breach. And it is largely because of this assiduous and intensive study and reflection which the weekly newspaper inspires that it wields such an important influence on its readers.

The country weekly also can be counted upon for loyalty to its readers, subscribers and advertisers, for justifiable pride in the town and district which it serves and in so doing is worthy of support, in season and out of season, from the local merchants, the local board of trade, the local sports organizations, the local churches and the people of the district, for the local paper is a co-operative enterprise, even though privately owned.

Without the services of a sound, sane country newspaper, any community is bound to suffer and many worthy local ventures would languish and wilt of inanition and without the whole-hearted support of the many individuals which make up the community the local paper would lapse into a decline and eventually inherit a lamentable grave.

The fact that the great majority of the country weeklies have survived the grueling test of a depression of unprecedented length and excessive severity—and the casualties have been surprisingly few—speaks volumes for the high regard in which they are held, perhaps often unconsciously, by the people they have served, and are serving so well and so tenaciously, despite great handicaps.

Public Too Curious

People Barred From Parts Of Windsor Great Park

The decision, reluctantly arrived at, to close to the public parts of Windsor Great Park near the Royal Lodge to secure privacy for the King and Queen is a lesson to people who have been indiscreet in their curiosity, comments a writer in the London Daily Sketch. The ruling may be relaxed later if conditions improve. The King and Queen like to regard Royal Lodge and the Great Park as a part of their private lives.

Not New To Eskimos

Natives Of Remote Island Have Always Had Social Security

Social security is centuries old to the primitive Eskimos of remote Muniwak Island.

They provide for their aged and needy through "gift festivals" a noted German scientist, Dr. Hans Himmlerherber, disclosed after a five-months' study of the natives.

"All festivals are held mainly to exchange gifts, everyone making what he can to give away, even kayaks (skin boats) and 100-yard long seal nets, thus showing his value to the community."

"The gifts are piled up and then distributed by the most respected man to the old and poor first. This provides an economic minimum for all members of the community, since many suffer undeservedly, being bodily incapable or unfortunate."

Preservation Of Liberty

American - British Friendship Best Guarantee Of World Peace

Under the heading "lung together or hung apart," an editorial in the New York Daily News endorsed that part of Lord Tweedsmuir's recent speech at the United States naval academy in which the governor-general of Canada said:

"The American and British navies are united in the same purpose—the preservation of liberty and peace. The News forecast difficulties if an attempt were made to put a formal naval and military alliance between Britain and the United States through parliament or congress."

"We would hardly like to see ourselves up in an agreement to help Britain fight Italy or Russia," it argued. "Britain wouldn't like to be tied up to us for some conceivable South American or Mexican war."

"But for the two of us to keep our informal friendship unflinchingly warm is only common sense... as long as we maintain the world's two most powerful navies, any nation will think a long time before picking a fight with either Britain or ourselves."

The editorial added that American-British friendship is not only natural, but is also, as Lord Tweedsmuir says, the best guarantee of both national safety and the best insurance against another world war."

Mahatma Gandhi

Reported To Be Leading The Life Of A Typical Villager

Mahatma Gandhi is now leading the life of a typical villager.

He has taken permanent residence in a hut on the outskirts of Shogang village, seven miles from Wardha (Central Provinces). His wife and secretary live at Wardha, hence the latter goes daily to his master. The road to Shogang lies partly through fields which become a morass during the monsoon, making communication difficult.

Nearly a hundred huts, some thatched, are scattered about the village. Gandhi's home, which is a tiled inn of mud, has an airy hall in the centre which serves as his study. A kitchen, storeroom and bath complete the home. At the side is a small stable for goats.

Gandhi has no program for the future these days aside from his daily schedule. The villagers attend his open-air prayers at dawn and dusk.

Admiral Evans Holds Rare Award For Gallantry At Sea

Admiral Sir E. R. G. R. Evans, who delivered his address as Lord Rector of Aberdeen University the other day, is the only man who has received the Gold Medal for gallantry at sea. He won it on the occasion of the Hong Kong disaster, when he dived into a heavy sea and swam with a life-line to the sinking vessel. Not content with that, he returned to bring an unconscious comrade to the small motor launch, which had approached as near as possible. After that he dived in a third time to free the propeller from a piece of wire with which it had become entangled, reports the News of the World. He earned his famous title, "Evans of the Broker," when in charge of one of two destroyers which defeated six German destroyers off Dover in 1917.

Should Be Discouraged

British Royalty Thinks Official Presents Impose Needless Burden

King George intimated to foreign governments through official channels that he did not wish gifts on his coronation.

This follows the precedent set by his father, George V., who said shortly before the last coronation that outlays for lavish official presents were needless burdens on others and should be discouraged. Since then British royalty declined all gifts except those from personal friends.

Despite this precedent the British royal family and government still send magnificent gifts to other foreign rulers on state occasions.

HOW TO OVERCOME ITCHING PILES

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. The most effective and painless method of cure is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from any druggist, a package of Hemorrhoid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness. It is also in healing the piles to spots. Hemorrhoid is a physician's prescription and is highly recommended. Use Of Serums

Taken From Persons Recovering From Infantile Paralysis Found Effective

The use of serum from persons recovering from infantile paralysis to treat other victims proved effective in checking an epidemic in Manitoba, Dr. F. W. Jackson, deputy minister of public health for Manitoba, told the conference of state and provincial health officers.

Altogether 539 cases were reported, of which 33 died and of the remainder only 99 had paralysis after the disease subsided. Six or seven only will be totally disabled," he said.

The Final Stop

You need 40 feet to stop your car at 20 miles an hour; 73 feet at 30 miles and 115 feet at 40 miles. At 50 miles you will need 166 feet—and if you keep on climbing in speed eventually you will need only "five or six feet"—depending upon your height. Moreover, then, you will be stopped for good.

A Seedless Pear

Fruit On Ohio Farm Is Also Practically Coreless

A new seedling pear, seedless and practically coreless, has been found growing on a Columbian County, Ohio, farm. It resembles the Bartlett, and compares favorably with that standard variety, ripening about ten days earlier. The tree promises to be vigorous and productive, and, while it has not yet been widely tested, it seems to have promise, especially for canning. For several years the fruits have averaged about 90 per cent seedless.

To Mend Broken China

Mixture Of Isinglass And Vinegar Makes Excellent Fixative

An excellent china fixative can be made with isinglass which must be broken up into small pieces and placed in a small cup or egg cup, with a few drops of vinegar. The mixture should be of a syrupy consistency. Use a small camel-hair brush and paint the mixture on the previously cleaned edges, then press them tightly together. If possible, a thin rubber band will often be useful in keeping an article in position until the mixture has hardened sufficiently to hold.

U.S. Air Base

To Set Aside 900 Acres Near Fairbanks, Alaska
President Roosevelt set aside 900 acres near Fairbanks as a prospective site for the United States army's proposed $10,000,000 Alaskan air base.

An exclusive order prohibiting settlers from entering the area said the land was being "reserved for use of the war department for military purposes." Army sources, however, described the site as a possible location for the new base.

CHAPTER III.

Jack Trueman's dog was a black and tan collie with a bob-tail. His was the general purpose breed of a drover's tyke; and he was all dog. Jack claimed to own the sharp-eyed, self-reliant fellow—but that was a matter of opinion, merely. In the dog's way of looking at things, Rover owned Jack Trueman; and Trueman owned him. When a smart, clever dog has something of his very own, you understand—say a smelly bone or an unruly boy—naturally he thinks highly of his own property. And he puts up with the smell of his own bone and the kicks of his own boy as one of the inconveniences of proprietorship, just the same as you and I put up with taxes.

Rover liked, at times, to have his boy throw sticks for him; and, of course, sticks can not be thrown if they are not fetched. But he only fancied that sort of thing in moderation. When the sport ceased to amuse him, he would cock his leg against a post, and then run away on business of his own. This was clear evidence, you will agree, that Rover was the chief executive.

Jack Trueman had not bought the dog; nor had he been given the dog. One day, Rover had left the drover's team he was looking after, and had dropped in, casual-like, to inspect the alley at the side and the stable in the rear of the Tavern. He fancied the look of the place and the smell of the slop bucket. Offhand, he decided he would like to own a boy who lived round an interesting place like that. So the two of them struck up a bargain on the spot—at least they thought they did. There was a mutual misunderstanding so complete that things worked out all right.

One June day, they were down to the foot of Berkeley Street to see a double hanging; and that surely was one glorious well-filled day. There was a high stone wall clear around the prison which stood close to its bay shore; and the Fair Grounds lay open to the west. Two men, Turney and Hamilton, were to be hanged on a Tuesday morning. To give the public a tidy view of the drops, both before and after taking, a double gallows had been built facing the Fair Grounds and high on top of the prison wall.

Before the early risers were abroad, hundreds of heavy farm carts and lumbering wains came creaking into town with their loads of merry, holiday-making country folk from far and near. Along the muddy roads came also bands of stately farm lads, facing stoutly on foot, with stick in hand and bag on back, stepping down 30 miles or so to see the doings. Two men were to be killed by the law in the morning as an example to the public; and the schools throughout the district were closed that the children might benefit by a valuable lesson in morals and good living. That day the taverns of Toronto did a stirring business.

"Your soul to the devil!" said young Jack to me. "Let us hoarse down and see the necks stretched." The hangings had been set for ten o'clock in the morning; but an hour ahead of time there was a good-natured throng of thousands jostling one another before the grim prison walls. It was the sort of crowd one sees nowadays at a big country fair. Neighbors were greeting neighbors, and jostling over local affairs. Men carried their liquor well in those days; and, of course, mothers had brought the young children in their arms. What else could the poor dears do?

A stir among the men on the prison walls told us the death procession was coming. A hush of awe and expectancy ran through the great throng. And this gaping crowd, stirred with thoughts of human slaughter, was standing in the most humane and tolerant colony Europe ever established beyond the seas! New England had been developed by the labor of convicts transported to be sold as serfs on an auction block. We are often told of the Mayflower landing the Pilgrim Fathers on the Plymouth Rock. Oh yes! But we hear little of the fact that for a century every other merchant ship touching a New England port carried a cargo of convicts on the Pilgrim Fathers. The outposts of those colonies were pushed westward by rough frontiersmen who murdered as they went on frolics of their own. The southern colonies were developed by slave labor, and the full wages of that slavery have not yet been paid. One of the first laws passed in Upper Canada in 1793, provided for the abolition of slavery; and in dealing with another human, there has never been a time or place in Canada, save in her wretched prisons, that any man could with impunity make him a law to itself.

You ask what brought thousands of people together to see such a terrible sight as a double hanging; and I answer you that fifty thousand of the likes of you would turn out one morning to view a well-bungled hanging to-day. A murderer is a celebrity; and people run open mouthed to see a celebrity, to hear him speak and see him decorated or hanged—as the case may be. Every crowd hungers for excitement and is looking for a thrill. Every mob is by nature cruel and bloodthirsty. With all his clothing and culture, man remains a savage, a fact that becomes obvious when a few of them run together. The breath going out of thousands of throats made a low murmur as the murderer, William Turney, in his grave clothes and phinoned, came in to public view and stoutly mounted the stairs of the scaffold platform. A priest walked beside him. Behind them strode a hangman, who was closely masked.

It was a matter of good form—and decently expected in those days—that a murderer make a speech and exhort the public. A lusty cheer went up as William Turney stepped smartly forward to make his speech from the gallows. His was an Irish brogue; and his voice was loud and clear.

"Die—like—a—man!" shouted loud-voiced Michael, the smugger.

Turney had been working the fall before as a journeyman tailor at Markham Village. He dropped into a local store one dark night to get a jug of whiskey to take to an apple-picking bee. As the clerk, Michael, was bending over the liquor barrel, Turney stove the man's skull in with a hammer; and then rifled the till. He turned off the spigot, blew out the candles, closed the wooden shutters, and quietly went home to bed. The dead body was not found till the morning after. No one had seen Turney abroad the night before. He came under suspicion the next day because he rode to Toronto on a borrowed horse, and bought himself for cash money a pair of boots and a leather jacket. But that, you'll agree, was not hanging evidence.

Turney, however, needed money for his defence; and while lying in jail at Toronto he got a letter smuggled out to his wife. The poor simple woman was no scholar; and she asked a neighbor to read it for her. The letter told her the sack of money was hidden under a loose board in the floor of their backhouse at Markham Village. He bade her get the money and give it to the lawyer man. So the damaging evidence leaked out. How much wiser to have let the solicitor's clerk visit the privy!

On the scaffold Turney made a rousing speech. He shouted to us that he had been a British soldier in his day, and was not afraid of death. Turney thanked us all kindly for the compliment of coming to his hanging. It was sorry he was for killing the poor man, McPhillips, who had never hurt him and had treated him as a friend. The crime, he told us, had not been planned, but was done on the spur of the moment.

"Keep resistance high, organs clear and active, blood pure," say doctors

Don't let 'Flu get you down... beware of the epidemic that is raging! Keep on the job... keep infection from harmful wastes and poisons that accumulate and lower your resistance. The devil had tempted him; and he fell. He had run home that dark night in a terrible fear. The wind in the trees sounded in his ears like the growl of a hundred lions in hell. Hanging, he told us, was what he deserved. Let it be a lesson to us all.

Fort William Man To Receive In-Signals Of St. John Order
N. M. Patterson, shipowner of Fort William, Ont., who will be invested with the insignia of a Knight of Grace of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem at Buckingham palace May 25, expressed surprise at the honor to be conferred upon him when he arrived at Liverpool from Canada.

"I know little about first aid," Patterson said. "In fact I'm going to the London headquarters of the St. John's Hospital Brigade to see what it is all about. I've provided uniforms for the brigade in Canada and have been of some assistance but still the honor is a complete surprise."

An official of the hospital brigade explained Patterson was being modest and was being honored in recognition of his outstanding service on behalf of the order in Canada.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Ready to Go

"If I know about just two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is missing, your food does not digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sick and the world looks punk."

A new bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well as takes lime good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two things done. They really make you feel 'up and up.' Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of a colon but have no calomel or mercury in them. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

A Western Story

Prize-Winning Book By Kathleen Redman Strange Deals With Farm Life

The prize-winning book, with the West in her eyes, which under the title "A Modern Pioneer," recently won for its author, Kathleen Redman Strange, the thousand dollars offered by George J. McLeod Limited of Toronto and the Dodge Publishing Company of New York, with the cooperation of the Canadian Authors' Association, is scheduled to appear on the market this month.

Mrs. Strange is the wife of the internationally known grain expert, Major H. G. L. Strange and is already well-known to the reading public of Canada for her stories and articles which have, from time to time, appeared in our magazines and newspapers. Her book should be looked forward to with special interest, since it describes in an intimate and lively fashion, every-day life of a typical prairie farm. It tells particularly the story of the farm woman, in whose struggles and triumphs, hopes and disappointments, Mrs. Strange herself shared for ten years. Her book is a fitting tribute to the splendid courage and endurance of the women of the farms, to whom it is dedicated.

One of the judges, Dr. Pelham Edgar, says of the book, that it is not only admirable as literature, and as a personal record, but that it should prove of practical value for intending settlers, since the conditions depicted, though actually set between the years 1920 and 1930, are much the same to-day and cover both boom and depression periods in prairie life.

It is interesting to note that out of the 174 manuscripts received in the competition, on many subjects and varied localities, that a story of Western Canadian prairie life should have been chosen. It can be said to be an indication of the interest taken in the West, in the people and their problems.

The landlady brought in a plateful of extremely thin slices of bread and butter, which rather dismayed her hungry boarders.

"Did you cut these, Mrs. Brown?" "Yes—I cut them!" came the stern reply.

"Oh," went on the boarder. "All right—I'll shuffle and deal."

"What made you buy your house in such a remote and desolate spot?" "An excellent real estate man."

Eagle Attacks Airplane

Injured Pilot Before It Was Finally Shot Down

A duel between a large eagle and a Caproni airplane is reported from Addis Ababa. The machine was returning to the capital from an inspection flight in the interior, carrying two airmen and some soldiers, when it was attacked by an eagle. A machine gun was fired at the bird without hitting it. The eagle, however, ever, struck and damaged the machine and injured the pilot in the forehead with its beak. Finally it was hit and fell to the ground. The Caproni had to land.

The eagle, which was found by some natives, measured eleven feet four inches between the wing tips—London Times.

Demand For Stamps

Canada's First Public Stamp Auction Brings Many Buyers

Canada's first public stamp auction was held in Toronto recently when philatelists of 16 to 60 years of age paid more than $500 for 200 lots of stamps.

When it was all over, the auctioneer, Robert Lindsay, 44-year-old war veteran, who turned a hobby into a business when the depression threw him out of work seven years ago, sat back and announced the auction "more successful than my wildest dream."

Canadian jubilee issues brought the best prices. One lot which in January could have been picked up for $6.50, brought $7.75.

Railroader-Actor

Roy Emerson (above), English actor who played Moody, the railway contractor, in the Gaumont British epic of Canadian Pacific Railway construction through the Rockies, "Silent Barriers", found himself right at home in the part when he went to the C. P. R. mountain division on location. The division was by no means new to Emerson who with his brother Percy served the railway there in 1912. Roy, the actor, as a freeman on "pusher" engines, and Percy as a round-house hostler at Revelstoke where much of the film's local color was filmed. Roy Emerson was a popular figure during the filming of the Canadian railway epic among the railroaders, many of them former associates.

Need For Blending Wheat Grades Told To Turgeon Inquiry

Farmers Get Higher Prices as Blending Permits Better March
andising, Exporter Says

(By Sam Ross)
(Special Correspondent)

Vancouver, —April 3d, —As a step in development of foreign markets for Canadian wheat, appointment of a wheat market commissioner in London has been proposed to the Turgeon Royal Grain Commission at its sittings here.

Robert McKee, long identified with the grain trade here, made the suggestion in giving evidence last week. Aided by bakery, chemists, milling and advertising experts, the commissioner would direct campaigns to develop present markets and create demand in new markets. Actual sales of the wheat would be left to the grain trade.

John Whittle, Vancouver exporter, advocated blending of grades of wheat to achieve a standard quality. Blending of the lower grades as now permitted by law allowed merchandising and sale of the wheat at improved prices to producers, he contended. He termed blending a "service to producers". Blending of the top four grades is prohibited.

Opening the sessions on the Pacific coast, Hon. J. L. Ralston, K. C., Montreal, commission counsel, emphasized retention and extension of markets was the major objective of the inquiry.

Interlocking importance of wheat and lumber in development of foreign markets served by exporters through Vancouver was cited by J. H. Hamilton, secretary of the Vancouver Merchants Exchange and Vancouver Grain Exchange. He also emphasized necessity of Canadian wheat being on a competitive price basis with wheat of other exporting countries.

Availability of bulk grain at Vancouver had acted as a stimulus to the extension of the shipping business which in turn had widened the markets for grain. Where grain markets extended, so also did markets for other commodities and vice-versa, said Mr. Hamilton. One was complementary to the other with both benefiting.

Quoting market surveys, Mr. Hamilton said price was a vital factor in sale of Canadian wheat in China. If the Canadian price was high, then purchases were made from Argentine and Australia. Japan's wheat purchases depended largely on the amount of Japanese goods bought by the wheat exporting country.

Both Mr. Hamilton and John Whittle, general manager of the Midland Pacific Terminal Ltd., dealt with freight rates. Reasonable land and ocean rates were essential to successful export of grain. Mr. Hamilton remarked that reductions in westward rates had equalized to a considerable extent in the disparity which existed in Vancouver's early days as a port.

Application of the lower export freight rate to domestic shipments was urged by W. C. MacLean, Vancouver feed merchant. He contended both prairie producers and coast consumers would benefit.
